BY THE NUMBERS: OMNIBUS LANDS GRAB AND ENERGY RESTRICTIONS ACT

- 4 new units added to the National Park Service
- 10 new National Heritage Areas
- 14 studies that would create or expand National Park Service jurisdiction
- 19 provisions specifically withdrawing federal land from mineral leasing, such as oil, gas, and coal exploration
- 37 the number of times the word "controversial" is used in the CRS report describing provisions in the omnibus

The Federal Government already owns nearly 650 million acres of land, of which almost 30 percent of the land area of the United States

- 92 —rivers designated as wild and scenic, a designation that imposes federal jurisdiction and regulation on the impacted waterway, and involve significant land acquisition authority
- 130+ bills included in the omnibus package
- 1,085.77 miles of river designated as wild and scenic, a designation imposing federal jurisdiction and regulation on the impacted waterway, and involve significant land acquisition authority

1,294 — pages in the omnibus

The National Park Service has a $9 billion backlog of work that needs to be completed on existing federal land.

- 1.2 million acres in Wyoming withdrawn from mineral leasing and energy exploration
- 2.186 million acres designated as federal wilderness land, which eliminates all major recreation and prohibits any new oil and gas leasing
 - 3 million+ total acreage withdraw from energy leasing
 - $331\ million$ barrels of recoverable oil being taken out of energy exploration in Wyoming
- $640 million—spending included in the bill for new state and local water projects
- $915 million total increase in mandatory government spending over the 2009-2018 period
- $10 billion total projected cost to the federal government on enacting the omnibus
- $9 billion the National Park Service's maintenance backlog of projects needed on existing federal park land
- 8.8 trillion cubic feet of natural gas in Wyoming taken out of energy exploration